Zanes Law Firm Educates San Miguel Students in Daily Work Ethics

Students Learn Hands-On Life Experiences

Tucson, AZ – October 6, 2009 – Students at San Miguel High School are taking on responsibilities as part of real “work-day” experiences at Zanes Law. Four students ranging from freshman to senior, work once a week under supervision of the team at Zanes Law in a variety of fields including front desk/receptionist, mail clerk, litigation and other areas. Zanes Law is one of 85 business partners networking alongside San Miguel through the Corporate Internship Program. The Program integrates a rigorous academic curriculum with practical work experience to prepare students for college and careers.

San Miguel graduated its first class in May of 2008 highlighting 37 seniors, all of which graduated and were accepted to college and awarded over $3.6 million in scholarships and grants. As part of the Cristo Rey Network of 24 schools across the country, students take a full course load while at the same time working in entry level positions at local businesses. The students earn approximately 60% of their school tuition through this program.

“It is important and truly rewarding to see the students we steward through the program excel into life,” share Doug and Claudia Zanes. “We mentor the students with not only a place to learn excellent job skills, but with the hope that we are instilling in them the core values our firm is based on – excellent representation for our clients, great customer service, teamwork and high standards in all we do.”

Mark Neimeyer, Program Coordinator at San Miguel says the school is achieving its goal of changing the face of the south side of Tucson one student at a time. “We are the school that works,” states Neimeyer. “We can make a difference in these students lives and network with community businesses to help. We truly appreciate the support of businesses like Zanes Law for taking the steps with us to change students lives.”
